

P.R.S. NOTE.

CLASS III.—LATIN.

Can anyone give any help in the taking of Class III. (Latin) for beginners? I find it most difficult to do the amount of work set, and take "Scott and Jones" as it is meant to be taken, and as we were told at Ambleside, it ought to be taken. Last term we had 45 exercises—Latin into English, and 28 English into Latin—73 exercises in all. According to the time-table there are about 36 lessons in the term, so that one ought to take two exercises each time, as well as learn the vocabulary for the next lesson. Certainly these are often very short, but then there is the occasional rubbing up of old ones, and of declensions. I tried to get everything done by skipping or hurrying through parts of the "Justenogatis" and "Viva Voce," but find that my small child, who began by loving her Latin and talking really well, is disheartened. This term, which is shorter than last, we have only 58 exercises, but they are nearly all much longer.
